Forecast For Tayside, Central & Fife
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 30 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers frequent at first. Afternoon dry and bright. Seasonally mild.

Today:
Showers through the morning, quite frequent particularly across western areas of Tayside and Central Region. Turning dry by mid-day with bright and sunny spells building for the afternoon, giving a fine end to the day in the seasonally mild maximums. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud thickening from the south through the evening, with a band of occasionally heavy rain extending northwards to all come dawn. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Friday:
Overcast and wet initially. Turning drier late morning, with brighter spells appearing in north. Continuing rather cloudy in Central Belt, with some patchy light rain or drizzle. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Saturday mild again but windy with showers that may merge to longer periods of rain initially. Sunshine, showers for Sunday. Rain then showers Monday, these perhaps wintry later in north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.